

Australian Government

Australia's Maritime Heritage

Australia has a rich and diverse maritime heritage help discover and protect it www.environment.gov.au/heritage/shipwrecks

Image Credits left to right:

SS Lady Darling (1880) New South Wales, Department of Planning (Main image); Schooner Alert (1854) Tasmania, Parks and Wildlife Service Tasmania; Brig Charles Carter (1854) South Australia, South Australian Department for Environment and Heritage; Shipwreck trail plinth HMS Sirius (1790) Norfolk Island, Western Australian Museum; Walga rock art depicting a vessel believed to be the SS Xantho (1854) West Australia, Western Australian Museum; SS Brisbane (1881) Northern Territory, Museum and Art Gallery of the Northern Territory; Face of the chronometer from SS Yongala (1911) Queensland, Museum of Tropical Queensland/Queensland Museum; SS Queensland (1876) Victoria, Greg Hodge Collection - Southern Ocean Exploration, Heritage Victoria.