1 Name of Determination [see Note 1]

This Determination is the Fuel Quality Information Standard (Ethanol) Determination 2003.

2 Commencement

This Determination commences on 1 March 2004.

3 Definitions

In this Determination:

ethanol blend means petrol that, as tested in accordance with the Fuel Standard (Petrol) Determination 2001, contains more than 1% ethanol.

service station means premises at which petrol is sold by retail from a petrol pump.

4 Service stations

- (1) The fuel quality information standard for the supply of ethanol blend from a service station is that one of the following appears, clearly displayed, on any petrol pump at the station dispensing ethanol blend:
 - (a) the words 'Contains up to x% ethanol', where x is no less than the percentage of ethanol in the ethanol blend;
 - (b) the words 'Contains y% ethanol', where y is the percentage of ethanol in the ethanol blend.
- (2) For paragraph (1) (b), if the percentage is not a whole number, it may be rounded to the nearest whole percentage, a multiple of 0.5 % being rounded up.

5 Other retail supply

The fuel quality information standard for the supply, by retail sale, of ethanol blend other than from a service station is that:

- (a) before the ethanol blend is supplied, the buyer is given a document that prominently includes the words specified in paragraph 4 (a) or (b); or
- (b) if the buyer is present when the ethanol blend is supplied, the words specified in paragraph 4 (a) or (b) appear on each container of ethanol blend so that the words can easily be read by the buyer.

6 Supply of ethanol blend to retailer

The information standard for the supply of ethanol blend to a retailer is that, at the time of the supply, the retailer is given a document that prominently displays:

- (a) a statement that the ethanol blend may contain up to and including 10% ethanol; and
- (b) a statement that the ethanol blend is the subject of this standard.
