Definition of Quarantine and Pre-Shipment Uses

“Quarantine and pre-shipment” (“QPS”) uses of methyl bromide are defined as follows:

Quarantine applications with respect to methyl bromide, are treatments to prevent the introduction, establishment and/or spread of quarantine pests (including diseases) or to ensure their official control, where:

- i. Official control is that performed by, or authorised by, a national plant, animal or environmental protection or health authority;*
- ii. Quarantine pests are pests of potential importance to the areas endangered thereby and not yet present there, or present but not widely distributed and being officially controlled.*

Pre-shipment applications are those non-quarantine applications applied within 21 days prior to export to meet the official requirements of the importing country or existing official requirements of the exporting country. Official requirements are those which are performed by, or authorized by, a national plant, animal, environmental, health or stored product authority.

Note that these definitions relate to official actions. Contractual or commercial requirements alone do not qualify for the QPS exemption.

If required, the Department of Environment and Water Resources can provide further guidance on whether your use of methyl bromide falls within the QPS definition (contact (02) 6274 1889, or email ozone@environment.gov.au).
