

Dear Sir

We need to continue to protect our beautiful great barrier reef for the future generations of Australian any changes which allow less protection to the reef and the marine life will mean we have decided money is more important than our inheritance. Fishing is more important than the conservation of our reef. Money can come and go but our reef cannot recover if it is endangered by cutting back on funds or removing the protections zones. We value our Great Barrier Reef it is our heritage and a great source of revenue through tourism. It is our right that we keep in place all legislation that have been implemented so our GBR is preserved and will be a constant pride for All the future generations.

Concerned Australian

Grace