

Red-tailed Black-Cockatoo

Spider

Carpet Python

Echidna

Eastern Long-eared Bat

Squirrel Glider

Gecko

Quoll

Woodland Wildlife

Part of the Australian bush, woodlands are home to a variety of native animals, many of which depend on hollow logs and trees for shelter, foraging and nesting. By removing firewood from woodlands, people deprive these animals of their homes and can threaten their survival. Look where the animals in the picture live and then match each animal to their shelter type. One match has already been done for you.

Animal

Red-tailed Black-Cockatoo

Spider

Carpet Python

Quoll

Echidna

Eastern Long-eared Bat

Squirrel Glider

Gecko

Type of Shelter

Rocks and Logs

Tree Hollows

Hollow Logs

Tree Bark

Tree Hollows

Rocks and Logs

Tree Bark

Hollow Logs

Natural
Heritage
Trust

Helping Communities
Helping Australia

A Commonwealth Government Initiative